

contents

List of selected acronyms and abbreviations 11

introduction

Achieving the Millennium

Development Goals

The Role played by Conversion..... 12

The Millennium Development Goals and human security 13

Where do we stand in respect to the MDGs?..... 14

Countries in crisis and conflict 15

Funding the MDGs: The 'guns and butter' argument 16

The MDGs as a source of conflict 18

Summary 18

BICC's findings 18

Arms and resources 18

Conversion-related aspects of peacebuilding 19

Conflict and resources 20

Conclusions 21

update

An Overview of Conversion Issues

Global Disarmament, Demilitarization

and Demobilization, 2003–2004..... 22

Global trends 25

Military resource use 25

Wars and post-war situations 30

Arms and resources..... 34

Military expenditures 34

Defense industry restructuring and conversion 38

Base closure and redevelopment 44

Surplus weapons 48

Conversion-related aspects of peacebuilding . . .	55
Demobilization and reintegration	56
Reconstruction and reform of the security sector	69
Conflicts and resources	71
The role of resources in internal wars	71
Business in conflict	75
Water as a conflict issue	79
References	84
Figures:
U.1: Military expenditures, global, NATO and non-NATO, 1985–2003	24
U.2: Shifts in military expenditures, 2002–2003	25
U.3: Trends in indicators of military resource use	28
U.4: Countries with the largest reductions in holdings of major weapons, employment in arms production, and armed forces, 2000–2003	29
U.5: Wars and armed conflicts in 2004	31
U.6: Post-war situations, 1999–2004	32
U.7: Trends in military expenditures for world regions, 1993–2003	34
U.8: Russian military expenditures, 2004–2005	36
U.9: Trends in employment in arms production for world regions, 1993–2003	39
U.10: Spending on military research and development (R&D), selected OECD countries, 2003	41
U.11: Trends in holdings of major weapons for world regions, 1993–2003	48
U.12: Trends in armed forces personnel for world regions, 1993–2003	55
U.13: Predicted reduction of the Armed Forces of Serbia and Montenegro (VSCG) between 2004 and 2010 through PRISMA	64
U.14: Status of cooperation in transboundary river basins	81
Boxes:
U.1: Issues in global conflict data	26
U.2: Spending on defense research and development	40
U.3: The European Defence Agency (EDA)	42
U.4: Reform of the Austrian Bundesheer	45
U.5: Converting bases in the Western Balkans	46
U.6: Nuclear proliferation issues in 2004	50
U.7: Cambodia: Post-Khmer Rouge disarmament	56
U.8: Small arms and light weapons in domestic violence	66
U.9: Regulating the trade in conflict diamonds: The Kimberley Process	72
U.10: Bunkering of crude oil in the Niger Delta	74
U.11: Frameworks for international economic actors in conflict situations	76

topic 1

Outsourcing the State?

Security Governance and the Privatization of Military Functions	88
The state, violence and the modern military	90
Towards a post-Westphalian order?
The reprivatization of war and the military	92
'Bottom-up' versus 'top-down' security privatization	93
Private military companies	94
The private security and military provider industry in Iraq	96
The trend towards military outsourcing in North America and Europe	101
Military privatization and global security governance	102
From government to governance: From standing armies to private armies?	102
Conclusions: The retreat of the civilian domain and implications for defense conversion	107
References	108
Figures:
T1.1: Examples of private security companies operating in Iraq	97
T1.2: Examples of military service-providers in Iraq	99
T1.3: Dimensions of government and governance	103
Boxes:
T1.1: Security privatization in the South	93
T1.2: Security privatization in the North	94
T1.3: Contractors on the battlefield: Operating in a legal vacuum?	104
T1.4: Mercenaries in international law	106

topic 2

Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration without Camps

The Need for Decentralized Approaches 112

Centralized approaches: Disarmament, demobilization and reintegration (DDR) with camps 114
Advantages of centralization 116
Shortcomings of centralization 117

Why reintegration is different from disarmament and demobilization 118
The disarmament/demobilization stage 119
Reintegration 119

Decentralized approaches to DDR 122
How can decentralized approaches be improved? 123

Conclusions: Community-based DDR? 124

References 125

Figures:

T2.1: Stages of DDR in a centralized approach 115

Boxes:

T2.1: Two-track reintegration in the Republic of Congo. 120

topic 3

Security Sector Reform in Post-conflict Societies

Assessing the Record in Afghanistan and Iraq 126

Prerequisites for security sector reform 128

Afghanistan 129

Military reform 132

Police reform 133

Judicial reform 133

Iraq 135

Military reform 135

Police reform 138

Judicial reform 138

Assessing the potential for success 139

Ownership 139

Understanding and engaging the local context 140

Consensus 140

Security 141

Capacity 142

Coordination 142

A long-term perspective 143

Conclusions	143
References	144
Boxes:
T3.1: Counter-narcotics in Afghanistan	130
T3.2: Judicial reform in Afghanistan: Improving security for women	134
T3.3: The Multi-National Security Transition Command (MNSTC-I) in Iraq	136
data appendix	146
Sources and methods	146
Treatment of new and unifying states	146
Notes on military expenditure data, A1	147
Notes on weapon holdings data, A2	147
Notes on data on armed forces personnel, A3	148
Notes on data on employment in arms production, A4 ..	148
References	149
Country groups	150
A1: Military expenditures, 1993–2003	151
A1.1: Country groups	151
A1.2: Countries	152
A2: Weapon holdings, 1993–2003	156
A2.1: Country groups	156
A2.2: Countries	157
A3: Armed forces personnel, 1993–2003	161
A3.1: Country groups	161
A3.2: Countries	162
A4: Employment in arms production, 1993–2003	166
A4.1: Country groups	166
A4.2: Countries	167
country and regional index	169
BICC at a glance	171