

Table of Contents

Acknowledgement	5
INTRODUCTION	10
Definition of religious groups	12
Purpose	15
Comparing Kenya and Uganda	17
Locating this study in urban and peri-urban areas	18
Empirical approach	19
Fieldwork	19
Data survey	19
Field conditions	20
Orality	21
Material	22
Organisation of Study	22
THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK	25
Approaching religion and politics	25
Religion in modern social science	28
Primordialists and the quest for meaning	31
Instrumentalists and the pursuit of material goods	34
Constructivists and the search for the middle ground	36
The rational choice approach to religious movements	38
The rule-oriented approach to ideology and movement	41
The Frankfurt School	47
THE FOREIGN MISSIONARY FACTOR IN THE CHRISTIANISATION OF AFRICA	53
Historical aspects of Christian mission in Africa	53
Core perceptions of historical missionary intervention in Africa	54
Actors, institutions, and strategies	56
Philosophies of and about cultures	70
Patterns of conversion	76
Summary	85
Contemporary Christian mission in Africa	86
Actors, institutions, and strategies	86
Core perceptions of contemporary missionary intervention in Africa	97
Contemporary missionary intervention and international religious NGOs	101
Aid shifts and religious NGOs in Kenya and Uganda	120
Summary	141
Conclusion	142

THE CHURCHES AND POLITICS IN KENYA AND UGANDA	144
“Prayers for the Nation”: Religious actors and the constitutional review process in Kenya	144
Patterns of church-state relationships under the Moi presidency	145
The constitutional review process	150
Evangelical politics	152
The absence of a religious vote	156
The continuity of “multiple conversions”: The Movement and the churches in Uganda	158
Patterns of church-state relationships under Amin and Museveni	159
The churches and the polls	162
The (dis-)integration of religious actors	164
Evangelical networking	166
Conclusion	169
TOWARDS A POLITICAL THEOLOGY OF EVANGELICALISM	171
Drawing the map	171
Comparing the American and Kenyan narratives of Pentecostalism	172
The American narrative	173
The Kenyan narrative	178
Summary	182
The Third Wave of Christianity	184
Locating Third Wave Theology	185
From deliverance to prosperity: the therapeutic appeal of Pentecostalism	185
Conspiracies	195
Rebecca Brown’s “doorways”	202
Dispensationalism	203
Christian Fundamentalism and the Bible	207
Summary	208
The Authoritarianism of evangelical theology	209
POLITICAL ATTITUDES AMONG EVANGELICALS COMPARED TO MEMBERS OF OTHER RELIGIOUS GROUPS	212
Authoritarianism-scale: test phase	212
Pilot Scale	212
Intermediary scale	214
Final scale	217
Results for the Kenyan and Ugandan scaling	220
Who are the Neo-Pentecostals and Evangelicals?	226
Selection of target and control groups	229
Composition of target and control groups	230
Denomination and conversion	233

Church selection and theological preferences	234
Socialising and Communication	235
Political participation	236
Contentment	237
Summary	237
Variables	238
Gender and age	240
Social participation	241
Political participation	242
Summary	242
 SYNOPSIS	 244
 APPENDIX	 248
List of Abbreviations	248
Overview of results of the data survey	250
Original Questionnaire Forms	257
References	262
Primary Sources	262
Secondary Sources	266