Content

Abbreviations and Acronyms 9

1. ESDP and National Policies 11
1.1. European Integration and Security 14
1.2. ESDP enters the Real World 19
1.3. Key Findings and Limitations of the Literature 24
1.4. Contribution to the Field and Plan of the Book 26

2. Theoretical and Conceptual Considerations 29
2.1. Foreign Policy Analysis 29
2.2. A Constructivist Lens 33
2.3. Strategic Culture 36
2.4. National Role Conceptions 40
2.5. Europeanization 41
2.6. Overall Argument and Working Hypotheses 44

3. The Changing External Environment 49
3.1. Threats to Security and their Characteristics 49
3.2. The Crises of the 1990s 54
3.3. The American Response to ESDP 58
3.4. Europeanization of Security and Defence Policy 63

4. Strategic Cultures of EU Member States 67
4.1. Germany's Strategic Culture of Restraint 67
4.2. Austria's Grand Illusions 70
4.3. The United Kingdom's Aspirations of the Past 73
4.4. France Beyond de Gaulle 76
4.5. Strategic Cultures and ESDP 81
4.5.1. Germany 81
4.5.2. Austria 83
4.5.3. United Kingdom 84
4.5.4. France 86

5. Austria 89
5.1. Cooperative Security Despite Neutrality 89
5.2. Arena for Cooperation – ESDP, the Permitted Alliance 93
5.3. Instruments Between Comprehensiveness and Neutrality 97

5.4. Inertia and the Purpose of the Military 101
5.5. Conclusions 108

6. France 109
6.1. Cooperation and the Limits of Independence 109
6.2. Competition, Complementarity, Cooperative Frameworks 112
6.3. The Military Instrument and International Standing 116
6.4. Force Projection and Military Reform 120
6.5. Conclusions 126

7. Germany 129
7.1. Cooperation as Security and Defence Policy 129
7.2. Avoiding Choice in the Arena for Cooperation 133
7.3. Re-Evaluating Instruments 136
7.4. Re-Defining the Purpose of the Military 142
7.5. Conclusions 148

8. United Kingdom 151
8.1. Cooperative Security with National Aspirations 151
8.2. Arena for Cooperation – A Zero Sum Game 155
8.3. Instruments and the Responsibility to Use them 159
8.4. Force Projection 165
8.5. Conclusions 170

9. National Strategic Culture and ESDP Beyond the Case Studies 173
9.1. Denmark 173
9.2. Ireland 177
9.3. Spain 181
9.4. Sweden 186
9.5. Conclusions 191

10. Concluding Remarks 193
10.1. Underlying Themes and Findings 193
10.2. ESDP and Strategic Culture – Implications and Future Research 201
10.3. Viable Directions for Future Research 204

Bibliography 207