

1.	Introduction .....	11
2.	Theoretic Conceptualization.....	19
2.1.	External Intervention: Actors and System.....	20
2.2.	External Intervention : Phases .....	22
2.3.	External Intervention : Categories .....	24
2.3.1.	Democratization by Contagion.....	24
2.3.2.	Democratization by Control .....	25
2.3.3.	Democratization by Consent.....	26
2.3.4.	Democratization by Conditionality?.....	27
2.3.5.	Democratization by Europeanization?.....	31
2.3.5.1.	Mechanisms .....	31
2.3.5.2.	Conditions.....	33
3.	The European Union.....	37
3.1.	The Strategy of the EU's intervention .....	37
3.1.1.	Motivation .....	37
3.1.1.1.	Normative and Pragmatic Reasoning .....	38
3.1.1.2.	Geographic Proximity.....	39
3.1.1.3.	The EU as a Role Model.....	40
3.1.2.	Objectives .....	41
3.1.2.1.	The Union's Development Policy and the Promotion of Civil Society.....	43
3.2.	The Actors of the European Union's Intervention.....	44
3.2.1.	The European Council .....	44
3.2.2.	The European Commission .....	46
3.2.3.	The European Parliament .....	47
3.2.4.	The Council of Europe .....	49
4.	Instruments of European Union's Intervention .....	51
4.1.	Phases of Intervention .....	51
4.1.1.	First Phase: Democratization by Economic Conditionality.....	51
4.1.2.	The Second Phase: Democratization by Political Conditionality.....	52
4.1.3.	The Third Phase: Democratization by Regional Cooperation .....	55
4.1.4.	The Fourth Phase: Democratization by Conversion – the Accession Conditionality .....	57
4.1.4.1.	The Stabilization and Association Process .....	61
4.1.5.	The Fifth Phase: Regional Approach and Accession Conditionality Combined.....	62
4.1.5.1.	The Stability Pact for South East Europe .....	63
4.1.5.2.	Regional Approach vs. Conditionality within the Stability Pact.....	66
4.1.6.	The Sixth Phase: Structural Rapprochement to the EU .....	69
4.1.6.1.	The Feira European Council.....	70
4.1.6.2.	The Zagreb Summit 2000 .....	70
4.1.6.3.	The Thessalonica Summit .....	71
4.1.7.	The EU Intervention Strategy: Conceptual Hurdles at the Core.....	74
4.2.	The Bilateral Policies of the EU towards Croatia and Serbia.....	76
4.2.1.	The EU Democratization Policy towards Croatia.....	76
4.2.1.1.	Drawing Croatia closer to the EU : Positive Conditionality.....	76

4.2.1.2.	Political Conditionality revisited : the Cooperation with the ICTY .....	78
4.2.1.3.	Accession as a Role Model for the Region: the Peak of Positive Conditionality .....	80
4.2.2.	The EU Democratization Policy towards Serbia .....	90
4.2.3.	The Bilateral EU policies vis-à-vis Serbia and Croatia Compared.....	99
4.2.3.1.	The Application of EU Conditionality 1: Cooperation with the International Tribunal in The Hague .....	100
4.2.3.2.	The Application of EU Conditionality 2: Asymmetric Trade Preferences.....	102
5.	The Promotion of Societal Participation by Regional Cooperation and Accession Conditionality.....	105
5.1.	Domestic Actors as addressees of the EU democratization strategy and the promotion of „Civil Society“ .....	107
5.1.1.	The Conceptual Loci of Civil Society in the EU’s Democratization Concept.....	109
5.1.1.1.	The Initiation of Civil Society Promotion within the EU’s Intervention Agenda.....	110
5.1.1.2.	The Evolution of Civil Society Promotion within the EU Intervention Agenda.....	115
5.1.1.2.1.	Alternation of Opportunity Structures – Project Funding .....	118
5.1.1.2.2.	Alternation of Opportunity Structures - State Society Relations.....	120
5.1.1.2.3.	Alternation of Opportunity Structures and the Conditionality Principle .....	123
5.1.1.2.4.	Alternation of Opportunities and Regional Cooperation.....	124
5.2.	Issue Areas Addressed by the Democracy Promotion Policies of the EU .....	127
5.2.1.	Issue Areas prioritized by the EU’s Regional Cooperation Policy.....	127
5.2.1.1.	Issue Areas prioritized by the Stability Pact – the Quick Start Projects .....	127
5.2.1.2.	Issue Areas prioritized by Regional Cooperation Initiatives .....	130
5.2.1.2.5.	The Initiative for Social Cohesion.....	132
5.2.1.3.	Issue Areas prioritized by the Regional Component of CARDS.....	134
5.2.2.	Issue Areas prioritized by the Conditionality Principle.....	138
5.2.2.1.	The Technicalities of the SAP .....	139
5.2.2.2.	Sectoral Reforms requested by the Conditionality Principle.....	142
5.2.2.2.1.	Civil Society in the Individual Country Reports Serbia and Croatia..	152
5.2.2.2.2.	Education in the Country Reports Serbia and Croatia .....	154
5.2.2.2.3.	Media in the Country Reports Serbia and Croatia.....	155
5.2.2.2.4.	Sectoral Issue Areas promoted by the Country Specific Component of CARDS.....	156
5.3.	Conclusion .....	162
6.	Promoting Participation (I): The EU’s Promotion of Media in Serbia and Croatia.....	165
6.1.	Relevant International Actors and Issue Areas in Media Promotion..	167

6.1.1.	The European Commission and the Media Section of the CARDS Program .....	169
6.1.2.	The Media Task Force of the Stability Pact for South East Europe ...	171
6.2.	The EU and the Promotion of Media in Serbia .....	174
6.2.1.	The Commercialization of the Serbian Media Market .....	175
6.2.2.	The Legal Reforms of the Serbian Media Market .....	176
6.2.2.1.	The Dispute about the Broadcasting Act .....	176
6.2.2.2.	The Freedom of Information Act and the State of Emergency in Serbia .....	183
6.2.3.	The Content of the Serbian Media Landscape and the EU's Intervention .....	190
6.3.	The EU and the Promotion of Media in Croatia.....	193
6.3.1.	The Ownership Structure of the Croatian Media Market .....	195
6.3.2.	The Legal Situation of the Croatian Media Landscape .....	196
6.3.3.	The Content of the Croatian Media Landscape .....	201
6.4.	The EU and Regional Cooperation in the Media Sector .....	204
6.5.	Conclusion .....	208
7.	Promoting Participation (II) : The EU's promotion of education and youth in Serbia and Croatia .....	212
7.1.	Challenges and opportunities for youth and education policies in Serbia and Croatia.....	214
7.1.1.	Education and Economy .....	217
7.1.2.	Brain Drain .....	219
7.1.3.	Ethnic and Religious Conflict.....	220
7.2.	The External Actors and the Establishment of European Youth and Education Initiatives for Southeast Europe until 2000 .....	220
7.2.1.	The Council of Europe .....	222
7.2.2.	The European Commission and its Youth Program .....	225
7.2.3.	European Youth Forum / Balkan Youth Forum .....	226
7.2.4.	The Graz Process .....	227
7.2.5.	The Stability Pact for Southeast Europe and its Task Force Education and Youth .....	228
7.3.	The EU's Youth and Education Policy after 2000 – One or Many Strategies?.....	230
7.3.1.	Confronting the Challenges of Developing National Youth Policies in Serbia and Croatia: New Accents of the European Commission .....	231
7.3.2.	Balkan Youth Project 2002-2005 .....	234
7.3.3.	Promoting Inclusion: A New Program Cycle by the Council of Europe .....	235
7.3.4.	The Task Force Education and Youth / The Stability Pact for Southeast Europe.....	236
7.3.4.1.	The Quick Start Projects: Sustainable Success ? .....	238
7.3.4.2.	The Political vs. the Economic Rational of Promoting Education: .....	239
7.3.4.2.	Changes in the TFEY policy 2002-2004 .....	239

7.3.4.3.	Political Mainstreaming for Integration 1 : The Task Force Education and Youth and the “European Reform Initiative Southeast Europe”	243
7.3.4.4.	Bringing Regional-Cooperation Back In: the Attempted Revitalization of the TFEY .....	244
7.3.5.	Political Mainstreaming for Integration 2 : The Bologna-Process .....	246
7.4.	The Conditionality Principle and the Education and Youth Policies	.250
7.5.	The Regional Approach and the Development of Education and Youth .....	252
7.6.	Conclusion .....	253
8.	Conclusion .....	256
9.	Bibliography .....	274