

Contents

Editorial.....	5
Foreword.....	7
Acknowledgements .....	9
Contents .....	11
1. Introduction .....	13
2. Theoretical framework .....	17
2.1. Civilian power concept.....	17
2.2. Is the EU a civilian power? .....	23
2.2.1. Self-characterisation of the EU .....	23
2.2.2. The foreign policy behaviour of the EU.....	26
2.3. Civilian power Europe and the use of force .....	31
2.4. Why does the EU operate as a civilian power? .....	34
2.4.1. The realist explanation.....	34
2.4.2. The normative explanation .....	36
2.4.2.1. The democratic peace theory .....	37
2.4.2.2. The constructivist explanation .....	38
2.4.3. Institutional constraints .....	39
2.4.3.1. The European march towards the CFSP .....	41
2.4.3.2. The institutional structure and the CFSP .....	46
3. The Importance of the Middle East for the EU.....	47
4. The EU and the Middle East.....	51
4.1. EPC and the Middle East (1971 - 1990).....	51
4.1.1. The Euro-Arab Dialogue (1976 - 1980) .....	54
4.1.2. The Venice Declaration and the first Intifada.....	57
4.2. The CFSP and the Middle East .....	63
4.2.1. Oslo Accords.....	65
4.2.2. The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership .....	68
4.2.3. Second Intifada and post 9/11 .....	75
4.2.4. The Roadmap .....	83

5.	EU-Palestinian Authority .....	89
5.1.	EC financial assistance programmes .....	89
5.2.	EU support for Palestinian reforms .....	93
6.	EU-Israel .....	95
7.	EU in the Middle East: A civilian power? .....	99
8.	Conclusion .....	103
	References .....	107
	Annex I: List of Abbreviations .....	117
	Annex II: UNSC Resolutions .....	119