Contents

Preface 5

A. The revival of the bell-bottoms? - The Responsibility to Protect deconstructed

1. The responsibility to protect at the 2005 World Summit 11
2. History of the responsibility to protect
   - 2.1 Establishment of the United Nations after World War II 18
   - 2.2 The International Commission on Intervention and State Sovereignty (ICISS) 22
   - 2.3 The High-level Panel on Threats, Challenges and Change 23
   - 2.4 In Larger Freedom
   - 2.5 Conclusions 24
   - 3. The responsibility to protect deconstructed – concept and legal content
   - 3.1 The three 'dimensions' to prevent, react and rebuild 25
   - 3.2 Legal content
   - 3.2.1 The responsibility to protect populations from genocide 28
   - 3.2.2 The responsibility to protect populations from war crimes 32
   - 3.2.3 The responsibility to protect populations from crimes against humanity 34
   - 3.2.4 The responsibility to protect populations from ethnic cleansing 35
   - 3.3 The possible form and content of a norm on the responsibility to protect 36
   - 3.4 Conclusions 40

B. En vogue yet not in fashion? - Institutional practice of the Responsibility to Protect

1. Consideration of the responsibility to protect by the General Assembly
   - 1.1 Consideration in general debates and within the work of main Committees 41
   - 1.2 Conclusions
2. Consideration of the responsibility to protect by the Security Council
   - 2.1 Consideration of the responsibility to protect in thematic discussions
   - 2.1.1 Consideration during discussions on the protection of civilians in armed conflict 48
   - 2.1.2 Conclusions 53

2.1.3 Consideration in other thematic discussions 54
2.1.4 Conclusions
2.2 Consideration of the responsibility to protect in specific country situations
2.2.1 Darfur 56
2.2.2 Somalia
2.2.3 Conclusions 57
3. Consideration of the responsibility to protect in the work of the Secretariat
3.1 Public statements by the Secretary-General and senior officials 58
3.2 The internal work of the Secretariat 61
3.3 Conclusions 62
4. Consideration of the responsibility to protect in the work of the Human Rights Council
4.1 The High-Level Mission on Darfur and its follow-up 63
4.2 Conclusions
5. Advocacy of the responsibility to protect by civil society 68

C. Dressing the naked king - Towards a framework of implementation

1. The possible role for the United Nations in the implementation of the responsibility to protect
1.1 Possible scenario for the application of the responsibility to protect 75
1.2 Existing capacities regarding the responsibility to prevent, react and rebuild 76
1.2.1 Existing capacities regarding the responsibility to prevent
1.2.1.1 Early-warning capacities 78
1.2.1.2 Early-action capacities 81
1.2.2 Existing capacities regarding the responsibility to react 83
1.2.2.1 Civilian capacities 84
1.2.2.2 Military and police capacities 89
1.2.3 Existing capacities regarding the responsibility to rebuild 99
1.2.4 Conclusions 104
2. Possible contributions by regional organizations and civil society
2.1 Regional Organization 105
2.1.1 The European Union 106
2.1.2 The African Union 107
2.1.3 The Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) 109
2.1.4 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) 110
2.2 Civil Society 111
3. Case studies
3.1 Darfur

3.1.1 United Nations action 112
3.1.2 Conclusions 115
3.2 Kenya
3.2.1 United Nations action 117
3.2.2 Conclusions 120
3.3 Myanmar 121
4. The way forward 122
4.1 Leadership opportunities for the Secretary-General 123
4.2 Closing the commitment gap 125
4.3 Closing the resource gap 132

D. Conclusion 139

Bibliography 141