

Contents

Introduction (Tadeusz Buksiński)	7
Bogusław Bukowski (Gorzów) The Liberal Democracy in the Contemporary World	11
Erich Fröschl (Vienna) The “Deformed Society”: Market Radicalism and its Effects on Democracy	43
Josef Melchior (Vienna/Cambridge) Democratic Paradoxes of Constitutional Politics in the European Union: From the Constitutional to the Lisbon Treaty	67
Manfried Welan (Vienna) Emergence and Development of a Stable Democracy. The Austrian Example	111
Dieter Segert (Vienna) Democracy and Populism: Insights from Post-Socialist Research	125
Tadeusz Buksiński (Poznań) Democracy between Interests and Identities (The Case of Poland)	139
Piotr W. Juchacz (Poznań) On the Post-Schumpeterian “Competitive Managerial Model of Local Democracy” as Perceived by the Elites of the Local Government of Wielkopolska	163
Sándor Gallai (Budapest) Hungary: A Democratic Polity Under Challenge	183

Ondřej Císař and Lubomír Kopeček (Brno)
Czech Democracy, Politics, and Society from 1989 to Present	227
Hennadii Korzhov (Donetsk)
A Long Journey to Democracy? Ukraine's Lessons in its Post-Soviet Transformation	263
Krzysztof Brzechczyn (Poznań)
In the Trap of Post-Socialist Stagnation: On Political Development of the Belarusian Society in the Years 1986-2006	287
Amazan Idinov (Bishkek)
Special Features of Democracy and Corruption in Kyrgyzstan	309
Nona Kubanychbek (Bishkek)
Sustainable Development of Kyrgyzstan: Past Achievements and Future Challenges	323
Marek Sikora (Wrocław)
Democratisation of the episteme	339
Evangelos A. Moutsopoulos (Athens)
The University Asylum and its Violations	357
Notes on Authors	365