

Table of Contents

Preface.....	v
Acknowledgements.....	ix
Contributing Authors.....	xv
Introduction.....	xvii

Section I — Ireland since 1989

Chapter 1

John O'Hagan

Business and Economic Change in Ireland since 1989

1. Introduction.....	3
2. Historical Background to 1989.....	3
2.1. Pre-1815.....	4
2.2. 1815–1922.....	4
2.3. 1922–1989.....	6
3. Post-1989.....	8
3.1. Has there been a Transformation in Economic Performance since 1994?.....	8
3.2. Employment Growth.....	10
3.3. Population Growth and Immigration.....	11
3.4. Growth in GNI/P or Living Standards.....	12
3.5. The Irish Economic Transformation: Remarkable and/or Desirable?.....	14
3.6. Just Catching Up.....	14
3.7. Well-Being.....	15
4. Explanations.....	16
4.1. Suggested Catalysts for Change.....	16
4.2. Accommodating Factors.....	18
5. Concluding Comments.....	19
6. References.....	21

Chapter 2

Máire Nic Ghiolla Phádraig and Betty Hilliard

Societal Changes in Ireland since 1989

1. The Historical Context of Change.....	23
2. Transition to Prosperity.....	24
3. Demographic Transitions.....	25
3.1. From Emigration Black-Spot to Host Nation.....	25
3.2. Change in Gendered Labour Force Participation.....	26
3.3. Religious Diversification.....	27
3.4. Changes in Family Formation.....	27
4. Cultural Change.....	28
4.1. Language.....	28
4.2. Lifestyle.....	28

4.3. Religious Practice	29
4.4. Attitudinal Change	30
4.4.1 Prejudice and Tolerance	30
4.4.2. Family and Sexuality.....	30
4.4.3. Attitudes to Institutions	32
5. The Impact of Prosperity on State Social Provision.....	33
5.1. Poverty and Inequality Levels.....	33
5.2. Health.....	35
5.3. Education	35
6. The Impact of Prosperity on Everyday Life	36
6.1. Attitudes to Work.....	36
6.2. Consumerism	36
6.3. Family	37
7. Conclusion	39
8. References.....	40

Chapter 3

Claire O'Reilly

The Question of Identity in Ireland since 1989

1. Introduction.....	43
2. Identity: "A Settled Semantic Career?".....	45
3. "Common Values, Beliefs and Meanings?" — Bulwarks of (former) Irish Identity: Faith and/or Language?.....	49
3.1. Faith Practices.....	50
3.2. Irish Language	53
4. The Things about which One would Rather not Speak, or: The Other Side of Changing Identity	54
5. Reflections on the Other and the Challenge of Addressing Identity	55
6. Other 'Shapers' of Irish Identity during the last Twenty Years	57
7. Conclusion	57
8. References.....	59

Section II — Germany since 1989

Chapter 4

Michael Grömling

Economic Change in Germany since 1989

1. Falling down the Income Ladder.....	65
2. Factors explaining the Recovery 2005–2007	67
2.1. Winners and Losers of the Upturn	74
3. A Return to the 1980s	75
3.1. A "Little Economic Miracle" in West Germany	75
3.2. Economic Collapse in East Germany.....	77
4. What happened in the Interim?	78
4.1. The Reunification Boom and Bust (1990 to 1996)	78

4.1.1. Increasing Adjustment Burdens in East Germany.....	79
4.1.2. Reunification Boom in West Germany and an ailing World Economy.....	80
4.1.3. A sudden End to the Reunification Boom in West Germany	82
4.2. Restructuring and the New Economy Boom (1997 to 2000)	84
4.3. The Long Stagnation (2001 to 2004)	87
5. Conclusion: Future Challenges	89
6. References	91

*Chapter 5Markus Linden*Societal Changes in East and West Germany since 1989

1. Introduction.....	93
2. Two States, One Nation? Society in East and West Germany at Reunification	95
2.1. West Germany: From “Subject Culture” to “Civic Culture”	95
2.2. East Germany: “The Ideal World of Dictatorship?”	97
3. Two Nations in One State? Today’s Societal Situation in East and West Germany.....	100
3.1. Differences in East and West German Attitudes and Value Systems.....	101
3.2. Population Development and the Emergence of New Marginalised Groups	103
4. Determinants, Development and Assessment of East-West Gaps.....	104
4.1. The Attitudes and Value Systems in Longitudinal Comparison	104
4.2. “Inner Unity?”.....	107
5. Increasing Exclusion and Declining Representation in a Competitive Society?	108
5.1. Excluded People and those “Left Behind”.....	108
5.2. Empirical Validation of the Exclusion Thesis.....	110
5.3. Exclusion due to Deficient Representation?	112
6. Sources.....	114

*Chapter 6Joachim Schwend*Identification and Identity Developments in East Germany since the Fall of the Berlin Wall — Interregional and Intercultural Transformation Processes

1. Introduction — Mentalities, Politics and Consumerism	121
2. Regionalisation: Identity and Sense of Place, the Concept of a “Europe of Regions”	128
3. Consumer Culture and the Region: Lifestyle Shopping and Regional Identification Processes.....	133
4. Conclusion	137
5. References.....	139

Section III — German-Irish Relations and Relationships since 1989*Chapter 7Niamh O'Mahony*Irish-German Business Relationships since 1989 —
Continuity and Discontinuity

1. Introduction	143
2. Irish-German Trade Relations since 1989	143
2.1. Exports and Imports	143
2.2. Foreign Direct Investment	148
2.2.1. German Companies in Ireland	148
2.2.2. Irish Companies in Germany	151
2.3. Discontinuity in the Irish-German Trade Relationship since 1989	152
3. Irish-German Business Relationships since 1989: The Interpersonal/Intercultural Dimension	153
3.1. The Trap of Similarity	153
3.2. Empirical Studies prior to 1990	155
3.3. Intercultural Differences between the Irish and the Germans since 1990: Continuity with some Elements of Discontinuity	156
3.3.1. Monochronic, Low-Context Culture Germany vs. Polychronic, High-Context Culture Ireland	157
3.3.2. Approach to Quality and Attention to Detail	164
4. Conclusion: Discontinuity and Continuity	166
5. References	166

*Chapter 8Claire O'Reilly and Gisela Holfter*Changes and developments in German-Irish relations since 1989

1. Introduction	169
2.1. From Heinrich Böll to the Lisbon Referendum – Differences of Opinion and/or Misunderstandings?	170
2.2. The Irish-German Relationship within the EU: Treaties and Referenda	174
3. Literary Developments in German-Irish Relations: An Overview	176
4. German-Irish Diplomatic Relations: Acts of Diplomacy?	178
5. Conclusion: German-Irish Relations Past and Present	180
6. References	182

Index	185
--------------------	------------