

Contents

Foreword	5
Preface	7
Introduction	11
1 The Interpretations	13
2 A Divided Society: Thirty-three Years later	14
3 Theory of Violence	17
4 The Use of Psychoanalytical Theory	18
5 Methodology	21
6 Organization of the Book	22
First Part: Understanding Political Violence	25
Chapter 1: Otherness in Social Theory	27
1 The 'Deviant' Other	28
2 The Other as Ideology	29
3 Symbolic Interactionism: The Community of the Self and the Other	31
4 Post-Structuralism and the Other as Power	32
5 Concluding Remarks: Desire as the Other?	34
Chapter 2: On Sacredness and Transgression: Understanding Social Antagonism	37
1 The Sacred and the Profane	38
2 Emergence of Social Antagonism	40
3 Language and the Structure of Desire	43
4 Fantasy	45
5 Discussion and Conclusions	46
Chapter 3: Sexuality and Violence: Towards Feminine Ethics	49
1 The Key Nature of Sexuality	49
2 A Masculine Society: The Oedipus Complex and Morality	51
3 Feminine Passivity versus Male Activity	53

4	On Sexed Subjects: Fundamental Male and Female Fantasies	55
5	Sexed Enjoyment and Exclusion	56
6	On Asceticism, Mysticism and Dualism	57
7	Concluding Remarks: Towards Feminine Ethics	59
Chapter 4: Democracy and Violence		61
1	Discourse Rationality	64
2	Discourse Ethics	66
3	Civil Disobedience	67
4	Hegemony and Radical Democracy	70
5	Articulation of Meaning and the Constitutive Outsider	72
6	The Universal	73
7	The Political Field	74
8	Conclusions: Ethics and Politics	76
Chapter 5: Outline of a Theory of Violence		81
1	Violence as Constitutive of Society	82
2	Identification and the Libidinal Link with Ideal Self	82
3	Fantasy	83
4	Fantasy and Sexuality	84
5	Elements of a Violent Fantasy	84
Second Part: The Meaning of Anti-Communism		87
Chapter 6: Historical Fantasies: The Right and Left in Chile		89
1	Background to the Presidential Elections in 1970	91
2	The Socialist Government of the Popular Unity Coalition (UP)	93
3	The Emergence of a New (Violent) Political Articulation	95
4	Historical Fantasies in Chile	97
Chapter 7: Metaphors of Hate and Political Propaganda		103
1	The Content of the Political Propaganda	103
Chapter 8: The Meaning of Anti-Communism in Chile		115
Conclusions		119
Selected Bibliography		123