

CONTENTS

Chapter 1 Natural Resources Governance – negotiations at the interface of community and state in developing countries Irit Eguavoen and Wolfram Laube	1
Chapter 2 Legal Pluralism in Forest Use and Management in Luoi Hai Mountain Forest, Vietnam To Xuan Phuc	21
Chapter 3 Forest Resource Use and Local Decision Making in the Bale Mountains Coffee Forests, Ethiopia. Till Stellmacher and Ralf Nolten	45
Chapter 4 Local extraction needs and forest conservation outcomes under diverse management regimes in Kakamega forest, Kenya. Paul Maina Guthiga and John Mburu	59
Chapter 5 Why ignore Ekpwe rules? The regulation of forest use by a secret society in Korup National Park, Cameroon Charles Takoyoh Eyong	79
Chapter 6 New Wildlife Policy, Local Attitudes, and Wildlife Distribution in JUKUMU Wildlife Management Area, Selous Game Reserve, Tanzania Devesh Rustagi	115
Chapter 7 Common-Pool Resources, Legal Pluralism and Governance from a New Institutional Perspective. Lessons from the African Floodplain Wetlands Research Project Tobias Haller	137

Chapter 8

The illusion of establishing control by legal definition: Water rights, principles and power in canal irrigation systems of the Kunduz River basin, Afghanistan.

181

Katja Mielke, Iskandar Abdullayev and Usman Shah

Chapter 9

Compensation crisis, adat law and unresolved land issues in Sarawak, Malaysia

211

Welyne Jehom Jeffreys