

Contents

Preface..... 9

I. Introduction to the theory of political opposition..... 15

1. What is opposition? ..... 15

1.1 General foundations..... 15

1.2 Opposition sensu stricto and opposition sensu largo ..... 17

2. Opposition, democracy and non-democracy ..... 19

2.1 Opposition or political opposition?..... 19

2.2 Political opposition sensu stricto in democracy and non-democracy..... 22

2.3 Legal, legalized, and recognized political opposition in democracy and non-democracy ..... 23

2.4 Models of political opposition in non-democracy ..... 27

2.4.1 A discussion of what is and what is not political opposition in non-democracy..... 27

2.4.2 The problem of the typology of political opposition in non-democracy ..... 34

3. Types and models of political opposition in democracy..... 42

3.1. The development of institutionalized political opposition and its function..... 42

3.1.1 Historical and contemporary forms of institutionalized political opposition..... 42

3.1.2 The theory of the waning of political opposition ..... 46

3.1.3 Legal (constitutional) institutionalization of political opposition in democracy ..... 52

3.1.4 The function of political opposition in democracy ..... 54

3.2 Typologies of political opposition in democracy ..... 56

3.2.1 Political opposition according to Robert Dahl ..... 57

3.2.2 Political opposition according to Klaus von Beyme ..... 65

3.2.3 Political opposition according to Jean Blondel..... 69

3.2.4 A selection of other fractional typologies of political opposition ..... 71

4. Anti-system and extreme political opposition..... 74

4.1 The theory of anti-system party according to Giovanni Sartori ..... 74

4.2 A discussion of Sartori's theory of anti-system party ..... 77

4.3 Capoccia's modification of the theory of anti-system party..... 80

4.4 A discussion of Capoccia's conception of anti-system party ..... 82

4.5 Anti-system and extreme parties – alternative suggestions..... 85

II. Political opposition in Central Europe ..... 90

5. Models of political opposition in Central Europe .....	92
5.1 Who makes up political opposition in Central Europe? .....	92
5.1.1 Non-fragmented and non-polarized leftist political opposition .....	94
5.1.2 Weakly fragmented and weakly polarized leftist political opposition .....	94
5.1.3 Weakly fragmented and polarized leftist political opposition ..	96
5.1.4 Fragmented and polarized leftist political opposition .....	96
5.1.5 Weakly fragmented and non-polarized rightist political opposition .....	98
5.1.6 Fragmented and polarized rightist political opposition .....	99
5.2 Constitutional and legal treatment of political opposition in Central Europe .....	103
5.3 The practical functioning of political opposition in Central Europe .....	108
5.3.1 Rules of the development of political opposition in Central Europe .....	108
5.3.2 Exceptions .....	110
5.3.3 Specificities .....	113
6. Anti-system and extreme political opposition in Central Europe .....	118
6.1 Anti-system political opposition .....	118
6.1.1 The Communist Party of Bohemia and Moravia .....	119
6.1.2 Other Communist parties .....	129
6.1.3 Anti-system or extreme Right in Central Europe? .....	135
6.2 Extreme political opposition in Central Europe .....	139
6.2.1 Extreme political opposition with occasional anti-system elements .....	140
6.2.2 Extreme political opposition ‘without attributes’ .....	143
6.3 Anti-system and extreme political opposition – comparisons .....	151
Conclusion .....	154
Bibliography .....	160
Zusammenfassung .....	190
Index of names .....	192