

Table of Contents

Introduction	19
Chapter One: Revolution and Reconstruction	21
Section 1: The Revolutionary Background	21
Section 2: The Formation of the Weimar Constitution	24
Section 3: Austrian Constitutional Development	38
Chapter Two: The Law Relating to Direct Legislation	42
Section 1: Constitutional Provisions in the German Republic	42
Section 2: The Administration of Direct Legislation in the Reich	52
Section 3: Austrian National Law and Administration	55
Section 4: The Law of Danzig	57
Chapter Three: Direct Legislation in State Law	59
Section 1: Provisional Constitutions	59
Section 2: The Law of the German Federal States ("Länder")	65
Section 3: The Law of the Austrian Länder	77
Chapter Four: Direct Legislation in the Local Units	80
Chapter Five: The Territorial Plebiscite	90
Chapter Six: Direct Legislation in Practice in National Governments	98
Section 1: Federal Questions and the Use of Direct Legislation in Germany	98
Section 2: The Territorial Plebiscite	125
Section 3: Cases in Austria	130
Section 4: Direct Legislation in Use in Danzig	130
Chapter Seven: Direct Legislation in Use in State and Local Units	133
Section 1: The German Länder	133
Section 2: The Use of Direct Legislation in Local Government in Germany	148

Chapter Eight: The Juridical Nature of Direct Legislation	158
Chapter Nine: Defects of the German System of Direct Democracy	164
Section 1: Criticism	164
Section 2: Popular Proposals	180
Section 3: Denouement	183
Chapter Ten: Direct Legislation and the Failure of the Weimar System	184
Appendix	191
Abbreviations	207
Bibliography	209
Die Herausgeber	219